Flexible Retirement Policy reference number, Version 1, August 2023

Staff are reminded not to rely on a printed copy of the Policy – Policy printed on August 2023

1. Introduction

University Hospitals of Northamptonshire (UHoN) recognises that colleagues no longer have to retire at a specific age. This policy applies to all colleagues and enables us to manage their retirement, while helping staff to better understand their options should they wish to retire.

This policy reflects ACAS best-practice guidance, following removal of the Default Retirement Age (DRA) in October 2011. This does not mean that colleagues will never be able to retire, of course, it simply means employers cannot require you to retire, unless there are exceptional circumstances (see 4).

This policy should be read in conjunction the Trust's Diversity and Inclusion, Recruitment and Selection, and Supporting and Managing Performance policies.

Pensions are a complex area, whilst the NHS Pensions team can provide you with information, they cannot provide advice. We would strongly recommend you take independent financial advice to ensure your decisions are well-informed, based on reliable and accurate information, and positioned in the context of your overall long-term financial position.

2. Purpose

This policy is aimed at providing guidance to all colleagues and managers on the retirement procedure. The policy sets out what retirement options are available to staff and what process should be followed.

The policy aims to comply with the spirit as well as the letter of current employment legislation.

3. Scope

This policy applies to all staff, including Medical and Dental staff.

4. Retirement Process

Your line manager should have regular conversations with you about your expectations, development needs and future plans, including through your annual appraisal review.

You can indicate a date at which you plan to retire from NHS service (your "indicated retirement date"). Should you change your mind, the Trust will accommodate your request to continue working beyond the original indicated retirement date.

Should you decide to retire, you must give at least your contractual notice in writing. However, if you are a member of the NHS Pension Scheme and wish to receive your NHS pension payments immediately upon retiring, it is advised that a minimum of three months' notice is given.

Once you have given formal notice to leave, the Trust is under no obligation to agree if you subsequently wish to withdraw your notice.

Any untaken annual leave that is paid to you when you retire will extend your end date for pension purposes. If you intend to return to work after your required break, but have annual leave that exceeds this period, you cannot return to work until the annual leave has been taken.

In exceptional circumstances, you may be asked to retire if it can be shown that you can no longer undertake your role (please see section 6).

5. Flexible Retirement

Flexible retirement is possible for any member of the NHS Pension Scheme with eligibility to claim their pension under the Pension Scheme rules, which can be from age 50 in some cases within the 1995 section of the scheme. All cases will be subject to Trust approval and on you meeting the rules of the scheme on your initial return to work after retirement. You should contact NHS Pensions for further guidance.

There are a number of flexible retirement options, which you may consider including: Winding Down, Stepping Down, Retire and Return, Late Retirement Enhancement, Early Retirement Reduction Buy Out and Draw Down (Draw down is available for members of the 2008 and 2015 section of the NHS Pension Scheme only).

These options provide flexibility in the area of retirement, and if you are interested in availing of these you should consult with pension specialists, including NHS Pensions, in relation to the impact of the desired flexible retirement on pension entitlements, as well as approaching your line manager in the first instance, who will seek advice from People Services as necessary.

5.1 Winding Down

As an alternative to simply retiring, you may wish to discuss with your manager the possibility of working fewer days or hours in your existing post enabling the organisation and yourself to continue to make use of your existing skills and experience. Pensions for part time staff are calculated on the whole-time equivalent salary, so moving from full time to part time work, rather than retiring, should not reduce your NHS Pension Scheme benefits at the time you decide to "winddown". However, it will reduce the rate at which you build up future membership. It is your responsibility to apply for this as a request to 'Wind Down'.

5.2 Stepping Down

In some instances, you may be considering retiring and reducing responsibilities of your current role. By agreement with your manager and People Services, you may be able to step down into a lower graded and therefore lower paid and less demanding post, which will still make use of your skills and experience while supporting you as you approach retirement.

Where you request to step down to a different role within the Trust, you should apply for a new role through the Trust's Recruitment and Selection process. The level of pensionable pay is protected for the calculation of pension benefits for staff who are over the minimum retirement age. You should contact NHS Pensions for further guidance as you must protect your pensionable pay within one month of the change and take at least a 10% drop in pay for a minimum of 12 months.

5.3 Retire and Return

You can also apply to retire, take all your pension benefits and return to NHS employment. One option available includes registering for the Staff Bank. This option is to work on an 'as and when' basis, giving an opportunity to pick and choose the hours worked.

The NHS Pension Scheme requires you to have a 24 hour break in service prior to returning to work.

You do not have an automatic entitlement to return to your previous or a different role and should be aware that retiring and returning to NHS employment will mean severing your current contract of Employment with the Trust.

If you wish to retire and return, you should complete an application for this (Appendix B). Prior to agreeing the application, your line manager should consider the impact of this and justify their decision. If the application is agreed, the line manager is responsible for ensuring that a Leavers payroll e-form is completed for you and forwarded to eWorkforce and a copy of the completed Retire and Return application (Appendix B) should be attached with the Leavers e-form. This will ensure that you are recorded as having left the Trust. Your line manager must ensure that the Retire and Return application form is attached with the leavers form so that eWorkforce can liaise with Recruitment Services to ensure that a new starter form is completed, and a new contract is sent to you for the new employment arrangements. It is expected that any annual leave entitlement, outstanding time owing etc. relating to the former role or hours will have been used prior to the new arrangements taking effect. Where you request to retire and return to your previous role within the Trust, approval will need to be provided via TRAC. Where you request to retire and return to a different role within the Trust, approval will need to be provided via TRAC to recruit and agree the recruitment process e.g., internal or external recruitment. Where you are intending to retire and return to a different role and require confirmation via TRAC, approval from TRAC may be sought prior to you confirming your intentions to retire in writing. If approved, this will then be subject to receipt of written confirmation from yourself.

If you wish to return to work at the Trust after three months of your retirement date, you must apply through the normal processes outlined in our Recruitment and Selection Policy.

Before applying to return to work, you should consider the implication of any future earnings on your pension payments.

5.4 Draw Down

This is currently for members of the 2008 and 2015 section of the NHS Pension Scheme only, however as of 1st October 2023 this will be available to members of the 1995 scheme – This ‘partial retirement’ option allows members to take between 20% and 100% of their pension benefits whilst continuing in NHS employment and continuing to build up future membership in the scheme e.g., by switching to a lower paid job or reducing their hours of work. To be eligible for draw down, you must:

- Be aged 55 or older;
- Be an active member of the Scheme;
- Be reducing actual pensionable pay by at least 10%;
- Have had the previous level of pay for at least 12 months;
- Expect the new level of pensionable pay to last at least 12 months;
- Not have already drawn down twice.

5.5 Late Retirement Enhancement

If you continue working past your Normal Pension Age (NPA) and you have not drawn down from your pension at all then your pension benefits will be increased by the application of late retirement factors. You should contact NHS Pensions for further guidance.

5.6 Early Retirement Reduced Buy Out (ERRBO)

This allows you and/or the Trust to make additional contributions to the scheme allowing you to retire earlier than your NPA without an early retirement reduction. You cannot retire more than 3 years earlier than your NPA and this option does not allow you to have a retirement age of less than 65 years old. This option is known as “buying-out” the early retirement reduction that would otherwise apply. There are strict time limits on when you can enter into such a buy-out arrangement. You should contact NHS Pensions for further guidance.

5.7 NHS Pension Scheme Flexible Retirement Options

	1995 Section	2008 Section	2015 Section
Step Down	✓	✓	✓
Wind Down	✓	✓	✓
Retire & Return	✓	✓	✓
Draw Down	✓ *as of 1 st October 2023	✓	✓
Late Retirement Enhancement	✗	✓	✓
Early Retirement Reduced Buy Out	✗	✗	✓

If you wish to consider any of the above flexible retirement options, your request should state what option is being requested, from which date, together with any other relevant details (for Retire and Return you should complete Appendix B). The manager will seek advice from People Services as necessary.

In order for the request to be fully considered and allow NHS Pensions the required time, the request should be submitted to your line manager at least six months' before the intended date. Once a decision has been made by the Trust, NHS Pensions will require 3 months verbal notice of your intention to retire in order to allow adequate time for the pension process.

It is your responsibility to seek your own advice in respect of pension entitlements when considering making use of this provision.

If the application for flexible retirement is agreed, your manager will write formally to you and liaise as appropriate with NHS Pensions and the Trust's payroll department.

If it is not possible to agree an application for flexible retirement, clear reasons will be provided in writing by your line manager, and these will be discussed with you. If you are not satisfied with the decision, you may appeal against this decision in line with the Trust's Grievance procedure.

All cases will be subject to Trust approval and on you meeting the rules of the scheme on your initial return to work after retirement. You should contact NHS Pensions for further guidance.

6. Ill Health Retirement

The NHS Pension Scheme has a tiered structure for ill health retirement, which may enable members who have at least two years membership and are unfit to work in their present job to retire early and take their pension benefits.

There are two tiers depending on whether you are:

- Unable to do your current job due to permanent ill health (Tier 1)
- Unable to carry out regular employment due to permanent ill health (Tier 2)

You may apply to be considered for ill health early retirement by completing form AW33E which is available from NHS Pensions. Alternatively, you can download the form from NHS Pensions Website: www.nhsbsa.nhs.uk/pensions

The minimum pension age does not apply in cases of ill health retirement.

In all cases of ill health retirement, confirmation and agreement from Occupational Health must be obtained and the ultimate decision to grant ill health retirement shall be the decision of the NHS Pensions Agency. Where approval has not been given by Occupational Health, you may apply in your own right, however you will need to refer to NHS Pensions for guidance on this and it is your own individual responsibility to do this independently.

People Services/Pensions will liaise with the NHS Pensions Agency on individual cases, depending on the individual circumstances.

In all cases of ill health retirement, this should be considered in line with the Trust's Attendance Management policy.
